APPENDIX C.

THE GOODWINS OF FAYETTE COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA.

In making a suggestion in regard to this family (which descends from a John Goodwin who evidently came to Fayette county by way of Baltimore, as his grandson William "went back" to Baltimore and was killed there) I stated that a complete record of the family might show in addition to John the names of William, James and Thomas. As John was a grandfather in 1799 he was probably born about 1745-'50. Mr. Warren S. Ely sends me the following transcript from the records of St. George's and St. John's Parish, Baltimore county, Md., which indicates either a very correct guess on my part, or else one of those queer coincidences which happen so frequently in family research.

Benjamin Goodwin was married in Baltimore county Feb. 6, 1742, to Hannah Urghuart. Children: i. William, born Jan. 7, 1744; ii. John, born Feb. 7, 1746; iii. Elizabeth, born April 28, 1749; iv. Thomas, born Nov. 23, 1752; v. Benjamin, born March 13, 1755; vi. James, born Oct. 16, 1758; vii. Ann, born March 8, 1760; viii. Hannah, born March 1, 1762.

It remains to be proved that the second son, John, is the John who settled in Fayette county, Pa., but it is historically true that the majority of settlers there were from Maryland, and that this John was from Baltimore county, and of the age of Benjamin's son John. It would seem probable that the first son, William, born 1744, was the William mentioned in Appendix N, as the ancestor of the Goodwins of Carroll county, Md., and both the Goodwins of Fayette county, Pa., and the Goodwins of Carroll county, Md., have the tradition that they are of Irish descent.

APPENDIX D.

THE GOODWINS OF WHEELING, W. VA., AND THE GOODWINES OF WARREN COUNTY, INDIANA.

John Goodwin, born before 1740, married Miss Heddie, and removed from near Wheeling, W. Va., to Bardstown, Ky., where they died. Of their seven sons, William, Abner, John, Thomas, Seth, Heddie and James, born 1780, only two are traced with any certainty. These are Abner, who settled in Putnam county, Ind., and James, who settled in Warren county, Ind. The Goodwins who reside in Bardstown and vicinity were supposed to be descendants of one of the other sons, but it now appears that they descend from Isaac Goodwin, born in Virginia, who, with his brother Samuel, was a member of Capt. Harrod's company in Jefferson and Shelby counties, Ky., in 1780. These two men were a generation younger than John Goodwin, but the fact that they settled in the same locality indicates a probable relationship. The descendants of Isaac are given later in this Supplement. William, John, Thomas and Heddie, of the sons of John Goodwin, are wholly untraced. William was said (page 76, 1897 Supplement) to have settled near Lebanon, Ind., but the Goodwins there are descendants of Aaron through his son Enoch (Appendix B). I think that William was the father of a Francis Goodwin, who lived and died in Taylor county, W. Va. William's brother Abner had a son Francis, and the names of the children, dates and place of living all point to John Goodwin as the grandfather of this Francis of Taylor county, W. Va., and to William as the father.
